Artist Statement - A detailed story about the work for viewer's understanding.

Only recently, did I discover that this method of illustration is called 'blind contouring'. The method implies drawing without looking at the canvas.

Applying this technique triumphed unexpected outcomes that aligned. I got crookedly refreshing vibes and felt that I hit the right note. To think on it, I suppose that's how music is created too.

This piece can stand alone and can also look great with my other works. Offering you a full story of self-travel with patterns.

It felt right to add the pink blots, to give these originally black and white instruments a fair dose of visual weight.

The final layer of fineliner atop the colored pencil and marker ink, tied everything together.

I hope you reach the crescendo that 3 Musical Instruments has to offer. It will be a travel and an orchestral background music, accompanying you.

Release, feel and merge.
