Artist Statement - A detailed story about the work for viewer's understanding.

Do you know that if a cat has a specific place to sit, it means that there is a lot of positive energy there, so he will sit here to absorb this energy? if you haven't seen it yet, notice that the cat will settle in a peaceful, quiet place where he gets the energy from the sun.

The cat likes positive energy! it is for this reason that you will see that a cat coming out of nowhere will settle in a family where there is a lot of harmony, and it is not by chance, he chooses in which family he wants to settle.

How Do Cats Act When They Sense Bad Energy?

When a cat senses bad energy, it can react differently. Cats are known to be healers, and they can absorb negative energy, so if a cat is surrounded with bad energy, as healers, they will suck that energy up and heal you.

So, if a cat senses bad energy and cares for the person with that bad energy, the cat will pull that energy out and heal that person. People need to gain the trust of the cats. If a cat meets a person, they will get to know this person before offering them the cat's trust.

Similarly, bad energy is not visible in the cat's first meet with the people, but this negative energy will go out after a few moments together. Cats will also be aggressive if they will sense bad energy.

If a cat finds out and senses bad energy, the cat will be on its full defensive mode. If a cat will feel bad energy and choose to be in an aggressive state, a cat will avoid and show contempt for that person with bad energy.

A cat will turn its ears back in an aggressive mode, and they will lower its tail and body. They will also display their teeth for you. The cat will then start hissing and growling at the person showing bad energy.

Of course, this is just an option. Not all cats that will sense bad energy will go in an aggressive mode. Sometimes, they would move closer to that person and absorb that bad energy.

They will heal the person. But sometimes, the cat will go away with the person who has the bad energy. They would sit and take a nap around the corner.

The reaction will depend on what the cat is and its temperaments. A cat might sense bad energy and act aggressively, or a cat can just let it be and be on its way.
