Artist Statement - A detailed story about the work for viewer's understanding.

The act of bringing Afrofuturism to life without having to look so shabby as they're little to no reference material has been difficult over the years. Circuit Lady is one of the projects that I'm proud of in terms of visualization, I was able to bring to life what a human skin would look like with circuit pattern and gold metallic color, never expected to see so much harmony with the human skills.

She was created with the mindset of being a cyborg but I thought to myself why not create a human who's able to create circuits and bring to life every dead technological object. Her setting is in the nearest future where time travel exists and she is able to come to the past to aid technological advancement so that humanity can grow faster in tech.

Lost in a laboratory after breaking out of her time capsule pod, she represents technological advancement.
