2. Artwork Information (continued)

Artist Statement - A detailed story about the work for viewer's understanding.

I spent 20 hours working on the creation of my version of Satoshi Nakamoto the Bitcoins' creator.

The medium used in this artwork is acrylic paint. The golden effect of the acrylic paint reminds me of the actual bitcoin.

The fact that the coin itself is colorful is because I personally love to use colors as chakra colors to represent energy! The colors here aim to be reflective of the amount of energy that has been put into the creation of the Bitcoin

Let me continue the trip to my artistic world and make you discover The Bitcoin Theory

Before we start working on something we have to think about it right? Here comes the golden brain, this is where it all started.

It is the place where the idea of the Bitcoin was firstly created.

If you pay attention in the background of the portrait, you can actually see the electrical circuits of the blockchain, working alongside our human neurons within the brain itself.

Finally, the portrait here expresses Satoshi Nakamoto's body merging with technology, which is represented by the robotic hands. The creator and the machine (computer) became one to create the software where the digital currency came to life
